DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-4, 7, 13-16 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by YEH (US 6,509,285 B1).

YEH discloses a fabric for moisture management, which contains fibers and second fibers. The first fibers have either circular cross-sections or multiple indentations along the longitudinal side of the fibers. The second fibers have multiple indentations along the longitudinal side of the fibers [this equates to the open-sided fibers of the present invention].

Art Unit: 1771

(Abstract) The invention relates to a fabric for wicking sweat or moisture from the skin using the difference in capillarity between two fibers composing the fabric. (Column 1, lines 13-16) The reference teaches the use of polyester fibers to make the fabric and also teaches using knitting to make the fabric. (Column 2, lines 28-37) The reference also teaches that the fabric structure has a first side and a second side. (Refer to Column 3, lines 20-30)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over YEH as stated above.

The YEH reference teaches a fabric for use in garments for moisture wicking. While the YEH reference does not explicitly state that the garments using the fabric of their invention are reversible, the reference does not preclude the use of their fabric in any particular direction in a garment. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art of making garments to make these reversible to provide versatility to the garment.

5. Claims 5 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over YEH as applied to claims 1 and 13 above, and further in view of Bengtsson et al. (US 4,195,364).

The YEH reference teaches using knitting to make the fabric of their invention. However, it does not explicitly teach the use of a warp knit construction.

Art Unit: 1771

Bengtsson et al. the use of warp knit fabric in a garment that causes regulation of climatic conditions by removing moisture and heat from the wearers skin. (Refer to Column 1, lines 10-18 and lines 65-68).

Since both YEH and Bengtsson et al. are from the same field of endeavor, the purpose disclosed by Bengtsson et al would have been recognized in the pertinent art of YEH.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the fabric construction and provide with a warp knit structure with the motivation of providing certain degree of rigidity to the structure as disclosed by Bengtsson et al. (Refer to Column 3, lines 35-39 and Column 2, lines 24-35).

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
